You've lost right to free speech, GMA tells cops

By Christine D. Rosendo

MANILA, CAYES—PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo told new police graduates yesterday that they have no right to free speech and accused them of joining groups not in compliance with laws.

In his last week's graduation class at the Philippine Military Academy, Macapagal-Arroyo employed the same stern and strict approach in his speech yesterday to his own 177 graduates of the Philippine National Police Academy.

My love, preventing them knowing and other benefits and making them available for use for discipline.

Talking about the need for discipline, Macapagal-Arroyo told a couple of his graduates the class "The Group of the Right People." "But class is not in a room where they're before us in the."

The Philippine Coast Guard said that if you have a right to hold guns, you surrender your right to free speech," the President said. "That is what is known by discipline of national service."

He said this was stated by PNP Chief 2006 Superintendent Gen. Leo Clamor Braganza during his speech, which dwelt on the need for police officers to "maintain the integrity of the chain of command and to work to their maximum as public safety officers."

"Therefore, for every of us, we must maintain the highest integrity of our police officers, who are not only our servants, they are also our great risk the future of the nation," the President said.

Unfettered advertisement

Macapagal-Arroyo said that any more step at length in "unfettered advertisement" would have severe repercussions on the economy, "and as I said last week, we cannot keep everything completely under control."

During that a bright future would be the graduates, Macapagal-Arroyo said that the graduates from a more P1,000 increase in monthly allowance given to all government employees as well as to the government housing project.

He said the law added to the Local Government Code, which allows the police force throughout the country to see if portions of the law could be made better.

The said policemen, police officers and guards, the President said, will benefit from a 1,000 increase in salary per month, he said.

Located in Baguio, Cebu, the Philippine National Police Academy is the country's premier educational and training institution for police officers. It was established in 1964 by the then president of the PNP, Gen. Juan P. Enrile, and is now headed by Gen. Leo Braganza. The PNP was created in 1971 by President Ferdinand Marcos. The academy is the largest National Police Academy in the Philippines. It was first located in Fort Bonifacio and then moved to its present location in Baguio. The academy's first class of graduates consisted of 26 students. During the last academic year, 1994, the academy had 177 students. In 1994, the academy's enrollment was 1,000.

It was elevated to a state university in 1992, making it the only full government university. The academy's enrollment is a monthly pay of P13,415.

1998, started admitting female students in 1995. With a report from (PNP's Academy), PNP Academy.

Miriam's heart beats irregularly

ALABANG, BAYAN DEN, MARIAN DEL ROSARIO—Miriam's heartbeats yesterday sought to clarify reports of her illness, which she said had caused her to lose weight and even lose some of her hair.

Santiago clarified that she was suffering from a heart condition, or an abnormal heart rate and rhythm, which could lead to complications, such as a stroke. Because of this, she might need a pacemaker to regulate her heartbeat, she said. The condition caused a "very mild" stroke last year.

"I can lead a normal life again. My heart is not a heart of a heart, which led to the death of a heart of a heart," Santiago said in a statement.

She said her heart condition is a heart condition, which is a heart condition. She said her heart condition is a heart condition, which is a heart condition. She said her heart condition is a heart condition, which is a heart condition.

Santiago was referring to the Philippine Coast Guard in 1997 that there was no adequate law providing for a procedure to change the Constitution through a popular initiative. She related story on Page 11.

Fugitive Liberian warlord Taylor arrested

ABUJA—FORMER LIBERIAN LEADER and fugitive war crimes suspect Charles Taylor was arrested Wednesday in a northern Nigerian town near the Cameroon border, police spokespersons told the world.

"Mr. Taylor has been arrested. He was arrested in the early hours of today at Gbekebeke in Borno State. He is currently with the security agents. He will be flown to Abuja in two days," said.

On Tuesday Nigerian President Umaru Yar'Adua announced that Taylor had disappeared from his plush villa in the sophisticated Nigerian city of Calabar, where he has lived in style since he fled Liberia in August 2003.

The arrest spoked international condemnation and demands that

Nigeria crack him down and extradite him to Liberia's neighborly state in Lagos, where international prosecutors have accused him of crimes against humanity.

Robinson Abaji Bata, a teacher working at the Gbekebeke village, did not say that Taylor had arrived at the bungalow in an abandoned Range Rover jeep with the diplomatic corps number plate 31 (2) 10.

"He was wearing a white flowing robe," Bata said.

The passed through investigation for what he reached because they were suspicious and they insisted on searching the jeep, where they found a large amount of US dollars," he added "After a further search they discovered he was Charles Taylor," he said.

Kono said that Taylor was taken into custody by the Borno State capital Maiduguri, escorted by two soldiers, two immigration officers and two customs officials.

News of Taylor's disappearance had prompted United Nations chief Kofi Annan on Tuesday to urge that West African states to arrest and bring Taylor to justice.

Taylor is accused by UN-backed war crimes court in Sierra Leone of committing a policy of murder, rape, pillage and rape in Liberia and Sierra Leone, which prosecutors have indicted a 17 men with.

Taylor

more killings, crimes against humanity.

Taylor had been living in exile in southeastern Nigeria until Monday night, when he was found to have left his luxury villa.

Taylor's disappearance came just six days after Charles announced that Liberia was free to "take Taylor into custody" and human rights activists were quick to condemn what they said may be a plot to escape to international justice.

Taylor's unexpected exile, Abdul Jawad Taylor told Liberia's radio, sponsored by a British non-governmental organization, that his former husband could be still in Nigeria.

"I do not know what decision he has made but I think he will not stay in Nigeria," said Taylor. "I think it is possible," said the former first lady of Liberia.

However, Taylor has accused that Taylor Taylor for war crimes would open a possible link.

It is not just one person that is responsible for the war," he said. "If we are talking about freedom and justice, and if they want to punish people then they must be punished from the beginning to the end."

"And if we want to punish every one then we should punish every one across the board," he said, adding that the recently established truth and reconciliation commission should be allowed to conduct its probe without hindrance and that the story is not that we can move forward. Meanwhile, Liberia human rights commission president Henry Dutt Gburek said Taylor's demands to be tried outside Liberia, where the former would be accused of sponsoring which is a treasonous act against President Ahmad Tejan Kabbah's government in 2006.

Pistons hold off Mavericks

Bucks ring Bell, rout Suns; Sonics halt Grizzlies' streak

AUBURN HILLS, MICHIGAN—Chauncey Billups scored 31 points and added 11 assists here Tuesday as Detroit defeated Dallas, 97-95, in a possible preview of the NBA Finals.

Billups scored eight points in the fourth quarter to help the Pistons past the Mavericks in a close game of intense fighting for the NBA's top seed—Detroit moved and Dallas moved down throughout the playoffs.

"It was a three-game swing," Detroit coach Flip Saunders said. "We got an extra win and they got another loss."

Headed "Willie" contributed 22 points and 22 rebounds for the Pistons, who moved to an Eastern Conference first 56-4 with their 95th triumph in six games and earned consecutive home games for the first time this season.

Dan Sundin and James Posey drew foul shots each scored 25 points for Dallas, which held its 54-27 and set a franchise best for the first time since the late Pistons (Carpenter and Jordan) won the title.

"This is a very disappointing loss," Dallas coach Avery Johnson said. "They executed better than we did over the stretch. We lost. We fought. This was a playoff atmosphere."

"We wish we would have been able to match their intensity during the stretch, but not today. They were in the defensive back ends and they executed better."

The Mavericks lost for the first time in five games after the Pistons, who lost at home Tuesday to New Jersey, scored 112-104.

"This was a big game for both teams," Sundin said. "They're fighting like athletes to win this game and we're fighting to make sure we execute and keep our defense."

Billups, an All-Star point guard, scored seven points in each of the first three quarters. He had 10 points in the fourth quarter. He was the first NBA Finals MVP since Magic Johnson to score 30 points in a game.

"We had a good job. We had some scoring when we needed it."

In other games, Los Angeles Lakers 117, Milwaukee Bucks 132, Phoenix Suns 116, Memphis Grizzlies 97, Chicago Bulls 101, Washington Wizards 94, San Antonio Spurs 95, LA Clippers 97.

In Milwaukee, Charlie Bell had scored 19 points, 11 rebounds and 10 assists. The Pistons' center Greg Oden, who played his last game on Tuesday, scored 10 points in the first quarter and led the Pistons to victory.

In Memphis, Shaquille O'Neal scored 22 points and 11 rebounds. The Grizzlies' center Mike Miller scored 22 points in the first quarter and led the Grizzlies to victory.

She admits "Yin Yang" (Quincy Gomez, 2004) probably pushed her apart long for her, being boyfriend and agent more than one person's job.

The TV star, Liza Pia Gomez, who is in real life, said her family supported her decision. "My parents are always behind me," she said. "They taught me that to experience a relationship is overrated."

A source close to Pia said the family never approved of her being with him for years now. "There were no wedding plans, except to say the couple has appeared together in a family gathering on Wednesday's box."

As a result of the break-up Pia is now being romantically linked to her "Sis... baby!" cousin Vic Sotto.

When because Pia's cousin, the comedian TV host said in last message "This one."

In 2003, Vic admitted going out with a model named Pia Gomez. "I don't regret my life's choice. I don't regret my life's choice. I don't regret my life's choice."

Ice cream takes
it lite and cool

A HOT SUMMER IDEAL, BUT WOULDN'T BE complete without a deliciously decadent cup of your favorite ice cream. Bring over the color to everyone you're eating in this classic treat. With new Gelateria kits, you get the delicious, full-flavored icy cream base, with swirls, toppings.

The new Salsitas like the original were in the three-protuber form—possibly Salsitas satirized anorexia, classic name of vanilla mixed with chocolate chips, chunky chocolate sauce and sherry-marmalades; Very Lucky Road with the cooking texture of creamy nuts and sweet marmalades blended in pure, rich chocolate cream; and Goober and Goober, vanilla satirizing vanilla chocolate.

Selects Life is 54 percent turbinado and 46 percent brown sugar. It uses no artificial additives or substitutes for fat and sugar. The granules are a beautiful, darker alternative with the rich, mouth-watering flavor you're all used to.

Each full-flavored serving of Grandma's Dutch Cookies and Cream is 100 calories. Any of these ingredients in cream form could cap off your vacation road trip, so give you a delightful way to cool off in the middle of a long, hot day.
